My company is a large urban events company. I got into this line of work throwing hip hop parties which developed into an events company and talent management agency.

Growing up I wanted to be an NBA basketball player and a rapper. My advice on opening a business is to study, read, research and become the best at the little things so as to impress clients, sponsors and patrons. The best part about being my own boss is earning a living while doing what I love. The worst is when people think what I do is easy.

You in a sentence? I'm confident, determined, hungry.
